

Statement in support of a Just Transition to a far more sustainable Waterloo region, addressing the climate crisis and securing brighter futures for all

Faith Climate Justice Waterloo Region is a grassroots collective of faith communities and citizens across Waterloo region who are deeply concerned about the global climate emergency and its impacts on people, the natural world, and our communities (see www.faithclimatejustice.ca).

Last Spring 2021, members of Faith Climate Justice WR endorsed both the TransformWR Climate Action Strategy and a commitment to the science-based target of 50% emissions reduction in our region by 2030 (50by30). We sought to add further urgency to increasing climate action region-wide, including building momentum to implement the many crucial actions outlined in this Strategy.

Raising our voices alongside many other inspiring and dedicated members of our communities, we urged local councils across Waterloo region last Spring to pass both the TransformWR Strategy and 50by30 target at this time. We are deeply grateful that councils of all seven area municipalities and the Region of Waterloo voted to pass both the TransformWR Strategy, along with the aspirational 50by30 target.

Now, in late winter 2022, we as people of faith concerned for climate action and justice are raising our voices once again. We reaffirm our support for bold leadership by all for continuing this urgent work, including support for a Just Transition that will accelerate the transition to the far more sustainable and equitable societies we know are possible – societies that care for all people, and for the sacred miracle of Creation that sustains all of us.

This call is aligned with peaceful actions set to take place in communities across Canada on March 12th this year calling for a bold Just Transition to fairer, cleaner economies (see <https://350.org/just-transition-day-of-action/>).

Such a transition is well-aligned locally with increasing support for implementing the many actions identified in the recently-passed TransformWR Strategy. The Strategy provides many opportunities to empower residents to join and help lead this important work; reduce our emissions towards meeting the 50by30 target; and as importantly, help position Waterloo region at the forefront of developing equitable climate solutions.

As shared in our statement to councils last Spring, as people of faith across Waterloo region, we support the TransformWR strategy and 50by30 target for several key reasons:

1. The actions proposed in the strategy are founded on a vision of the natural world as a sacred trust. This vision requires action based on a respectful caretaking of - and partnership with - the natural world, as well as a recognition of the interconnectedness between the health of our community and the health of our local environment.

2. The actions proposed emphasize the principles of inclusion and equity. Meeting the needs of equity-deserving groups will increase the equity, prosperity, and the resiliency of our beloved communities. Our faith-based perspective embraces the key intersections between climate action and social justice and calls us to care for those most vulnerable in our societies who have often done the least to contribute to climate change.
3. While the strategy itself includes many important and commendable actions that should be taken immediately, the recently-approved near-term target of 50by30 better aligns the strategy with the demands of climate science, increasing momentum for bold action locally, in line with increasing momentum that is now taking place around the world. We must aspire to what science requires to secure a safe climate future, and to lead in building the sustainable societies of the future right here in Waterloo region.

Lastly, as people of faith, we recognize we are all people of the living world and creation. With our global climate system in crisis, the living world is also, tragically and terribly, under great threat. The crisis threatens the well-being of us all, particularly children and young people and those most vulnerable who have often done the least to cause it. These communities on the front lines of impact deserve our utmost care and support.

For our part, we commit to supporting all who are doing this work to ensure a safe and just climate future in Waterloo region. We ask you, as our elected leaders, to lead this effort boldly. We also call on others to join us! Visit www.faithclimatejustice.ca or reach us at faithclimatejusticewr@gmail.com

Sincerely,

Members of Faith Climate Justice Waterloo Region
